🕷️ Arachne,¹ Astonished

In our porch rafters spiders spin big webs that reach and tremble, often with flies and sometimes moths hung in the crosshatch of their dewy cables.

I cannot guarantee that friends will not die or children put into practice what each learns;
but I thought that webs were a community of architecture as unreconstructed as the fern's.

Space's amazed spider in her cage is weightless. Fairly, one might expect her to sulk in a daze, paw the air in arachnean rage that good gravity monstrosly should reject her.

Well, there are situations which ape² that of weightlessness; without guidelines, demand that thread from the guts³ take formal shape
while the cruelly uninflected voice says, "Improvise!"⁴

O weightless, astonished Arachne, such original alterations, situational spinning of constructions! You frighten me very much.
Am I to understand, then, there is no end,⁵ none, to beginning?

Josephine Jacobsen

¹Arachne—(Arāk'nē) in mythology, a maiden who surpassed the goddess of wisdom in a weaving contest and was transformed into a spider

²ape—imitate

³thread from the guts—literally, the silken thread produced by spinnerets in the spider's abdomen

⁴Improvise—create or perform without preparation (on the spot)

⁵there is no end—literally, spider webs are reconstructed often, sometimes each night

Reader's Response to Literature Assignment
(Suggested time: approximately 30 to 45 minutes)

In the poem “Arachne, Astonished,” the poet uses a classical allusion to reflect on the implications of discovering that we must rely on our own resources.

What does the poem suggest to you about the significance of our ability to be resourceful? Support your response with reference to specific detail from the poem.

Literature Composition Assignment

(Suggested time: approximately 1½ to 2 hours)

In the course of life, individuals may find themselves in situations, or choose situations, where they must put their resourcefulness to the test. Much literature explores the effectiveness of the individual's response in critical situations.

Write an essay based on literature that you have studied in which the author examines an individual's ability to be resourceful.
What idea(s) does the author develop regarding personal resourcefulness? Support and develop your controlling idea with reference to specific detail from the literature that you choose to discuss.

Guidelines for Writing

- Select literature that is relevant to this assignment from the short stories, novels, plays, poetry, other literature, or films that you have studied in your high school English classes. You must focus your discussion on literature other than the poem provided in this examination booklet.
- Focus your essay on your controlling idea about personal resourcefulness. Markers will be looking for evidence that you are developing and supporting your controlling idea in response to this assignment.
- Organize your composition so that your ideas are clearly, effectively, and coherently presented.
